The story of my free offer to you is quickly told. During my many years of practice I have used numerous combinations of curative medicines for liver ills. I have kept records of results in case after case, so that my staff of physicians and surgeons, at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., are able to diagnose and treat cases at a distance with uniform good results. I am going to send you free a sample package of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which will relieve biliousness and ill health due to a disordered liver. Write at once for a sample or a book.

But for the permanent relief of blood disorders and impurities, I can recommend my "Golden Medical Discovery"—a blood medicine without alcohol.—R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stonewort, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY."

This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require.

Dr. Pierce says:—"Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on-coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken." Sold by all principal dealers in medicines.

Fables of the Wise Dame

By DOROTHY DIX.

THERE was once a Maid who was young and charming, but who was afflicted with an insupportable conceit that caused her much pain. It also made every one with whom she came in contact very, very weary, for she felt it her sacred duty to police their conduct and tell them what poor, weak creatures they were, and how they misused their great opportunities.

Notwithstanding that she was so top heavy with virtue, such was the publicity of the maid that she earned the affection of a fifty-year-old rounder who coned himself into the belief that her moral attitude was merely a side line of talk that she thought attractive to men, and that she would drop when she got married and took to bridge whist.

Unfortunately, however, the maid's conscience, instead of being a false alarm was the real thing. She was that most fearsome object in nature, a reformer, and no sooner was she safely wed than she began to put theories into operation on her husband.

"Alas," she would cry as he lit a cigar after dinner, "do you not know that the use of tobacco is a disgusting and injurious habit, and that if you would save the money you waste on cigars, in the course of a hundred years you could buy an apartment house."

"But," replied the husband, "think of the trouble and annoyance with landlords and tenants I am saved by not owning an apartment house! It is only those who have nothing who do not have to worry over the stock market."

He was wise. Discreet. Now the man was a discreet fellow who never toyed too much with his nose, but no sooner did he open a bottle of beer than his wife was on him with both feet.

"Miserable creature," she cried, "I see your finger in a drunkard's grave if you had not the good luck to marry a wife who knew how to down the demon rum and reform you of your vices."

"I perceive," said the man to himself, "that I am a fool."

A STORY OF LONG SUFFERING

As Told By Indiana Lady And How a Deliverance Was Effected At The Eleventh Hour.

Alfordville, Ind.—In a letter from this place Mrs. Vada Street says, "For over eight years, I suffered from almost every ailment known to my sex. I would have such severe pains in my back, every month, that I would be in bed two or three days."

At such times I would be so nervous that I could hardly stand anyone to walk across the floor.

I tried a lot of different medicines, but nothing I ever tried did me so much good as Cardui, the woman's tonic.

I have taken three bottles of Cardui, and the last three months I haven't suffered any pain at all, and I do not have those awful nervous spells.

Had I only known of this wonderful medicine eight years ago, I could have saved many dollars, and days of pain and sorrow.

I advise every woman who has the least symptom of womanly trouble, to take Cardui.

Lady Reader, have you any of these symptoms? If so, we urge you, as Mrs. Street does, to give Cardui a trial.

It is composed of purely vegetable ingredients—and can do you no harm. It is almost sure to do you good. Your druggist sells it. Try it today.

self when he had stood so much interference in his life that it made him sore, "that it is the dog collar and jumping through the hoop for mine unless I make a right line here for my liberty. So it is up to me to put in with some sort of counter play, for I think that the reason females are so not for me is because their own little games are never raised by men."

Therefore, the man went to his wife and addressed her: "I perceive," he said, "that you are right and that it is our duty to pass up the frivolous pursuits we have been following and lead the higher life. However, I do not feel that it would be kind for me to monopolize all the virtues, and sprout angel wings while you merely have a few pin feathers. I desire, therefore, to return some of the good advice you have been handing me, and help you to overcome some of your faults as you have assisted me to correct mine."

At this the wife looked surprised, but her husband continued: "I suggest," he said, "that you commence on your vices, and pass up your high heeled satin slippers for wide, comfortable durable leather boots."

"But," exclaimed the wife, "do you not know that I am possessed of a No. 1 foot that it would be a shame to hide?"

"That is true," replied the husband, "but you should not indulge yourself in such a weakness as caring how you look, for only the good are truly beautiful. Then you should leave off your stays, which are unhealthy and prevent the free action of the lungs."

"Not on your life," cried the wife, "for I have a straight front figure that makes all of my friends green with envy."

"You must also abandon frizzing your hair," continued the husband, "for it is wrong for a creature of your immortal soul to waste so much time on the curling iron."

She objected. "What," screamed the wife, "and go out with my head looking like a peeled onion? Not if I live!"

"That will be about all," said the husband, "for I see that you are steering clear of a husband's property. I trust that you are not willing to back up yourself. You want to sacrifice all my little sinning, but when it comes to giving up your vices, you are not in it. There is not enough reciprocity in this thing to suit me. Hereafter you lead the re-

HOLES IN THE AIR

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

THE atmosphere is far more treacherous in its moods and far less stable in its conditions than the stormiest ocean, and it possesses certain strange secrets which may never be fully divined. More terrible than the acronaut and the aviator, and more inexplicable than the whirling surges which sometimes sweep a ship from end to end in mid-ocean, are those curious phenomena known as "holes in the air."

An aeroplane entering one of these low density regions from the air of higher density around it," says C. G. Levening, "will suddenly fall without warning, merely because the pressure has enormously decreased and the aerodynamic velocity of support in this lighter medium."

The fact is perfectly familiar to all aviators; but what is the explanation and how shall the danger be guarded against? How can there be in the midst of the air a place where the density suddenly becomes so small, relatively, that the effect upon an aeroplane is almost as if it had plunged into a vacuum? These places cannot be seen or observed afar off. The aviator is aware of their existence only when he suddenly finds his machine plunging and dropping.

A scientific journal, criticizing Mr. Levening's statement, speaks as if the most probable cause of a "hole in the air" must be a violent whirl, like the center of a cyclone. But nothing is disturbed, everything goes smoothly, and, without warning, the machine runs into a "hole."

The probability is that the change in density is far less than it seems to be. This disastrous effect is due to the delicate balance of the aerial condition on which the aeroplane depends for its stability. A drop in atmospheric density which might not be very noticeable with the barometer would suffice to upset that shadowy equilibrium, and the slight change in the supporting force would cause the machine to surge, plunge and become instantly and completely unmanageable. Recent investi-

form procession and I will string into it somewhere along the road, but I do not propose to play a time hand at being the family model."

And that settled the lady, who was so afraid that she would be called up to give up a few beads, that she ceased to knock her husband's faults and they lived together in great peace and harmony.

Moral: This fable teaches that there is nothing mutual in reform.

THE COTTON GIN

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY.

IT was one hundred and eighteen years ago in March, 1794—that Eli Whitney, the New England school master, patented the cotton gin.

The Yankee pedagogue, who was at the time down in Georgia "teaching the young idea how to shoot," little realized that his invention was to result in another kind of shooting between Georgians and New Englanders, northern and southern; a shooting that was to light up half a continent with the flames of civil war, and cost the nation, before it was extinguished, the lives of a million men and the expenditure of billions of treasure.

The cotton gin made cotton culture profitable, cotton culture needed, in the opinion of the southern planter and the New England slave trader, to necessitate negro slavery; and the negro slave in American history knows that it was negro slavery that brought on the war. It is perfectly true that the south was fighting for the right to have negro slavery without degrading from the north, but it is equally true that the north was fighting for the right to have negro slavery itself; but it is the less for that that but for slavery there would have been no trouble.

To get an idea of the effect that gations of the upper air have shown that extraordinary differences of density exist in adjacent atmospheric layers; and it must be assumed that similar differences are capable of manifesting themselves in parts of the air nearer the earth's surface. Their precise cause remains to be discovered, but their existence is as menacing to the aviator as the "blue blood" of the sea is to the fish, and the "blue blood" of the air is to the flying machine.

Open Air Instruction For Children With Tubercular Tendencies

In the great cities of this country provision is being made for the open air instruction of children suspected of having consumptive tendencies. Carefully wrapped in warm outer garments the little pupils are exposed to the invigorating out-door atmosphere during the entire school day.

Pure, fresh air and cleanliness are the first essentials of the treatment of consumption. Prompt attention to every incident cold is the surest method of preventing the culture of the tubercular bacillus in the throat or lungs. If every parent could be made to appreciate the importance of using virgin oil or pine at the first evidence of a cold or sore throat, ninety per cent of our cases of consumption could be prevented.

Virgin oil of pine is prepared by the Leach Chemical Company, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and is sold by all druggists. It can be mixed at home, according to the instructions on the wrapper, and will cure a cold more quickly than any patent medicine or so-called cough remedy. Being a simple and natural vegetable oil, it is free from all the evils that attend the use of drugs and secret formulas.

FINDS DIAMOND PIN IN FISH AT ALPINE

Restaurant Man Makes Valuable Find in Cutting Open a Fish.

Alpine, Tex., March 11.—Henry Jasper, an Alpine restaurant man, while cutting up a fish last Saturday, found a diamond pin in its stomach. He discovered the pin on account of the end sticking in his thumb. The fish had been shipped from Corpus Christi and the setting is about one-fourth carat.

J. H. Murrah and family have arrived from Del Rio to make Alpine their future home.

H. L. Kokernot, formerly an Alpine citizen, and now residing in San Antonio, is planning to build a $35,000 summer home in the northeastern suburbs of Alpine. The grounds will be packed and terraced and he will probably have his own waterworks system by means of a natural reservoir on the mountainside.

Two Americans, now in the city jail, held on serious charges and unable to give bond, attempted escape by sawing the bars in the window of their cell. Sheriff Walton caught them.

D. D. York has left for the Hot Springs near Sierra Blanca, where he will take treatment for rheumatism.

Albert Bailey, of Eldorado, has purchased a ranch near Alpine and expects to move here soon.

W. G. Bechtel, son of Dr. Bechtel, and Miss Jewel Weaver, daughter of Rev. A. B. Weaver, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. A. B. Weaver performing the ceremony.

L. W. Durrell has resigned his position as postmaster of this place. His resignation will take effect about the middle of May. There are several applications for the office, among them Mrs. W. C. Easterling, R. B. Silght, G. C. Richards, all of Alpine and Floyd Nichols, of Marfa.

Miss Margaretta Cotter has left for Grand Falls, Texas, where she will spend about a month with relatives. Miss Mary Cotter is working in her place in the mercantile store.

Mrs. J. W. Clifton has returned home from a visit to her father, who has been quite ill, but is recovering. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Nevill and children, have left for Corpus Christi, where they expect to spend a month, where W. W. Collins left on a business trip to Valentine.

Superintendent G. W. Page has returned from St. Louis, where he attended a convention of the school superintendents of the United States.

The iron material for the Masonic temple is expected and contractor Webb will rush work from now on.

An entire new board of regents for the University of New Mexico has been appointed by governor McDonald, vice board that resigned because of a controversy over Rev. E. McQueen Gray retaining the presidency of the university. The new board consists of Nathan Jarvis, of Roswell; A. W. Cooley, of Silver City; Howard L. Bickley, of Raton; Felix H. Lester and J. A. TEXAS CATTLEMEN'S $250,000 CLAIM

TO AWAIT HARDWOOD LUMBER DECISION

Cases Are Identical, and Decision by Supreme Court Will Decide Future Course.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—Following the appeal of the Texas Cattle Raisers' association from the interstate commerce commission to the court of commerce for a settlement of the question of claim of the cattlemen for an allowance of $250,000 for excess freight charges paid prior to 1906, a conference was held between representatives of the Texas association and members of the coast line and foreign commerce committee of the senate with a view to securing an amendment to the Hepburn railroad regulation law so as to give shippers clearly defined rights in the commerce court.

As a result of the conference it was decided to let the matter rest until the supreme court of the United States has passed upon the appealed cases of the Tennessee Hardwood Lumber dealers, whom the commission decided were entitled to repatriation for shipments subject to excessive charges made subsequent to the filing of their complaint, but not on prior shipments.

The commission court overruled the commission in the lumber case and the railroad appealed to the supreme court.

As the cattlemen's case is identical with this it was decided today to await the final decision regarding the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission and the finality of its decision.

ROSWELL HAS BIGGEST STEER IN BABY STATE

Four Years Old, Weighs 2200 Pounds and Was Raised on Range.

Roswell, N. M., March 11.—The mammoth steer from the baby state will be the latest advertising scheme for New Mexico, and especially for Roswell.

George Slaughter had the big range graded steer brought from over the Texas line of the Slaughter ranch to the New Mexico side and had it weighed in the city. It tipped the scale at 2200, a gain of 120 pounds in three weeks. This is the biggest steer ever raised in this section. It is now four years old and up to a few days ago had no other food than the usual range.

Mr. Slaughter will keep it in the new state, and will show it at the Royal Rodeo show in Kansas City next October and at the international stock show to be held in Chicago next December.

Cow men seeing it on the street said it was the best they had ever seen. Several good photographs of the animal have been taken. It is branded the "PASTURE LONG 8" on the thigh.

PASTERING HORSES ON THE UPPER RUIDOSO RANGE

Ruidoso, N. M., March 11.—Fred and Gerald Tully, of Glencoe, N. M., brought up a bunch of horses to put in the Gilmore pasture on upper Ruidoso.

Peter Hale also put a bunch of horses in the same pasture.

STEADY RAIN IS A BIG HELP TO THE STOCKMEN

Silver City, N. M., March 11.—A slow, steady rain and an overcast sky for three or four days have been of immense value to the stockmen and farmers of this section, putting the ground in fine condition and helping the grain. The rain has been something unusual at this season of the year.

An initiation fee of $2 was agreed upon and an annual fee also agreed upon. It is the intention of the organization to take up business that concerns the cattle men of the county in the way of suggesting the new legislation and also to confer with the other cattlemen of the territory in regard to the amending and revising the present live stock sanitary law of the territory which in its present state fails to give the cattlemen a number of advantages.

The meeting adjourned to meet in Wilcox on March 14 when the further progress of the organization will be made and a number of committees make a report on matters that were referred to them.

The citizens of Wilcox promise to provide entertainment for the visiting cattlemen and it is expected that all who were in attendance here as well as a number of others will be in attendance.
